Impact of property tax relief measure on Albany schools

ALBANY — The Albany Unified School District's operating budget could be slashed by some $2.4 million by the Jarvis-Gann property tax relief measure, AUSD Superintendent Charles McCully told trustees attending the Feb. 14 school board session.

The initiative, which goes before the voters in June, limits property tax revenues to one percent of market value.

"However," McCully added, "there are so many undecided facets of the measure that it is impossible, at this time, to determine its impact."

Among the major questions raised by variables, the superintendent said, are:

- (1) Because education is one of the very few functions with constitutional dictates for the use of property taxes, will schools receive a larger cut of what property taxes remain?
- (2) How will the Serrano-Priest equal educational opportunity decision be effected?
- (3) Would the state give the schools some of its financial surplus to replace lost property tax dollars?
- (4) Could the district continue to collect taxes to repay the state building fund?
- (5) Could the state find another means of collecting the lost revenues to give the schools the money they are counting upon?

Until these factors can be determined, the extent of the budget cuts will be "pure speculation."

In other action: A workshop for school board candidates has been scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, March 4. The session will be conducted by McCully in the multi-use room of the Marin School. Invitations have been mailed to candidates Jean Tenret, Kay Rabin, William Wagner, Debbie Rosano, Bonnie Cediel, Daniel Saulsbury, Peggy Thompson and Mike Michell. The eight are vying for the seats of retiring trustees Robert Chin, Jack Rosano and Robert Nehls.

"The purpose of the briefing is to familiarize candidates with the duties and responsibilities of the board, and to introduce them to the administrative staff," McCully said.

The group also will review the budget and the policies and regulations of the district, curriculum, special education, boardmanship, facilities, enrollment figures, graduation requirements, adult education, the children's center, and testing programs.

An appreciation dinner for the three retiring members will be held at Goodman's on Jack London Square, on April 5. The fete is being sponsored by the Albany Administrators' Association, the Albany Teachers Association, the Albany Chapter of the California School Employees Association, and Local 990 of the Public Employees Union.

The trustees approved the 1978 summer school application. The summer term will extend from June 26 through July 28. The classes, for pre-kindergartners to seventh-graders, will be held in the Marin and the Albany Middle schools. Millicent Reguzzoni will be the principal.

Motorists warned on new traffic ticket law

ALBANY — Albany residents were warned today that a new state law requires the motorist to pay outstanding parking tickets before the Department of Motor Vehicles will renew his vehicle registration.

State Senator Nicholas C. Petris (D-Oakland) pointed out that the new law only applies to tickets issued after Jan. 1, 1978. "Earlier tickets must still be paid, of course, but their non-payment won't affect vehicle registration," he noted.

Senator Petris said he was making the announcement to insure that car owners know about this new law. "We all get parking tickets now and then, and this new law will affect every motorist who forgets or fails to pay a ticket."

"Courts throughout the state will notify the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) of unpaid tickets, thus the DMV will hear of your unpaid tickets, whether you get one in your hometown of visiting elsewhere in the state or if you get a ticket in one place, and change your residence without paying the ticket," he explained.

The purpose of this new law, he elaborated, is to cut down on the great

Experts address meet on child development

ALBANY — Recent research on child development will be discussed by several technicians scheduled to address a "Child Development Day" program Saturday, sponsored by the Marin School Parent-Teachers Association.

The six-hour session will open at 9:45 a.m. in multi-purpose room of the Marin School at 1001 Santa Fe.

An Alameda County juvenile probation officer will speak on the moral development of children, according to Sara Blackstock, chairman of the event, and several musicians, music teachers and a recreation director will discuss the significance of art, music and play in child development.

"A practicing physician will report on nutrition and allergies, and the overwhelming importance of these factors in maintaining the child's health," Mrs. Blackstock continued.

"We'll also hear three fathers review their experiences as parents and several persons involved in television evaluations will comment on some of the findings the average person can do to influence the nature of video programming.

"We can accept the first 200 pre-registrations we receive — the Marin multi-purpose room can hold that number. However, those desiring to take advantage of our childcare service should sign as soon as possible. We are providing care for youngsters between three and 10 years old at St. Albans' Episcopal Church, and parents are asked to provide each child with a lunch.

"Those desiring additional information," Mrs. Blackstock added, "may call me 525-5237, or the Marin School at 527-2033."

Waterfront Board election session

ALBANY — The Albany Waterfront Advisory Committee will elect officers for the year 1978 at its regular session Thursday at 8 p.m. The meeting will be held in the conference room of the city hall.

Also on the agenda will be a progress report from City Administrator William Haden and a second report from Vince Nicora of the Albany Landfill Corporation.

Nicora is "expected to comment" on a recent city council action in which staff recommendations with regard to the waterfront landfill operation were adopted. Nicora was informed of the action in a letter sent to his firm recently by Robert Guletz, Albany's director of public works.

The recommendations stipulate that:

- (1) Fill and stockpiling operations on Santa Fe land be halted.
- (2) Santa Fe land will be posted with signs reading "No Dumping."
- (3) The landfill operator will be directed to receive and stockpile select material in specified areas.
- (4) An interim (fill) plan will be prepared and will be used until a final closure plan is received.
- (5) The city will continue monitoring the program.

Commuters need BART, AC Transit

ALBANY — Bay Area commuters need both BART and AC Transit even though they overlap, BART Director Art Shartsis has told the Albany City Council.

Shartsis said the dual system is necessary because "BART is not reliable enough yet to handle it all."

Another reason, he said, is the "instability" of the Bay Area labor situation, referring to potential employee strikes that could cause even greater disruption if there were no alternative system available when either the BART or AC Transit workers strike.

Shartsis, responding to audience questions during the recent council meeting, said BART does not have a sufficiently adequate feeder system yet, adding that this is the responsibility of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

Shartsis sympathized with Albany's concern over noise emitted from moving BART trains. But the system lacks the funds for noise abatement and is having difficulty getting federal grants for the project, he said.

He said scanner-monitor systems in the stations are more efficient in maintaining the security of BART customers than Bart personnel since the monitor system can see 80 to 90 percent of each station.

He said a "Handicapped Task Force" is working on improving service to handicapped persons.

The board of directors has pared $4 million off an $80 million budget, he said, largely by limiting salaries.

Training program in home care services

A program to train youths, 16 to 21, in home care services for elderly residents, will be offered by the City of Albany.

The training sessions, starting March 3, are federally funded and include "an overview of the dynamics of aging," according to city officials. "Trainees will have the opportunity to attend workshops given by experts in several fields and stress health monitoring and maintenance, special nutritional needs of the elderly, and CPR and life saving," a program spokesman said.

"The initial training period will last for four weeks and consist of 20 hours weekly of in-class trainings. This will be followed by 10 to 13 weeks of actual in-the-home work experience, where the youths will give care and service to the elderly. The staff will work with the students, both in the classroom and during the work-experience in the homes, and the program will give the students the opportunity to earn while they learn."

Applicants must be 16 to 21 years of age, North Cities residents, and economically disadvantaged. Women and minorities are "encouraged to apply for the program. Additional information may be obtained by calling 644-8500 or 644-8501 for an appointment.

EBMUD hikes water rates

ALBANY — Albany residents will receive a substantial increase in their water rates, an East Bay Municipal Utility District (EBMUD) spokesman revealed this week.

Observing that "the water shortage has been replaced by a money shortage," directors approved an interim hike in rates for the entire area served by EBMUD. The action involved a continuation of the five-to-15-percent surcharge established early last year, plus a 20 percent increase in the predrought water rates which were established in 1974.

The result will be an increase of $1 in a two-month water bill for a typical family using an average of 250 gallons per day.

The increase was proposed "with great reluctance" by EBMUD General Manager John S. Harnett, who said he had hoped to recommend a cut in water rates when rationing ended.

But because of heavy drought expenses and reduced water consumption — compounded by inflation — higher rates are needed "at least for the rest of 1978 to help stabilize the financial picture," Harnett said.

He pointed out that without a rate hike "it will cost EBMUD $5 million more than we would take in just to provide water service during the current fiscal year."

He noted that the new rates will generate approximately $5 million during a 12-month period. The current charge for the first 10 units of water used in a two-month period will go from 29 cents per unit to 34 cents (a unit of water is 100 cubic feet or 748 gallons).

The unit charge for 11 to 80 units goes from 39 to 44 cents; for 81 to 8000 units from 37 to 41 cents; and for all water above that level from 34 to 38 cents.

Monthly service charges would not be increased.

Harnett pointed out that

AEE session on writing curriculum

ALBANY — A discussion of the "K-12 Writing Curriculum" will be discussed at a regular session of the Association for Educational Excellence, scheduled this evening at eight in the Marin School's library.

Guests invited to attend the meeting include fourth and fifth grade resource teachers for gifted and talented students — Robert Alpert, Marylee Saxton, Cam Teasdale and Lois Breault.

"Inability to write coherently is a nationwide problem," Anne Bell, AEE board member, said today, "and it is good to have attention directed to it in this district."

"Recommendations formulated at tonight's session will be forwarded to School Superintendent Charles McCully," she concluded.

Free class in Yoga for adults

ALBANY — The Albany Park and Recreation Department announced today a new Introductory Yoga Course, free, at the Albany Community Center, 1123 8th St. starting March 3, and extending through April 21, 1978.

The eight week course will consist of practice of basic asanas and poses, relaxation and meditation exercises and group chanting of approximately two hour duration, with a ten minute break after the first hour, the classes to be held weekly from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Ann Godman, the instructor, has been a Yoga student for three years, and a teacher of yoga classes in New York. The instructor is "interested in offering this means of fitness and stress reduction to persons who may be curious but unable to afford regular class."

The class is limited to twenty-five people. Registrations are accepted at the Albany Community Center, 1123 8th St.

EBMUD

a two-month water bill for a family using 20 units — about 250 gallons per day — would go from $11.40 to $12.40. He noted that the average charge among the nine neighboring Bay Area water suppliers for the same amount of water is $15.54.

"In other words," said Harnett, "even with this increase our cost of water is still 20 percent below the average of other water agencies on a typical bill."

He also pointed out that the cost of living has gone up 35 percent since EBMUD's last general rate increase in 1974.

He stressed that the utility district has been fighting to keep costs down, noting that in the last 20 years the number of permanent EBMUD employees has actually decreased by seven percent, while the number of water customers has gone up by 20 percent.

Harnett pointed out that a citizens committee — to be appointed by EBMUD directors — will be reviewing the utility district's financial policies and rate structures, as well as post-ratification water consumption patterns.

He said the committee will be asked to recommend a long-term water rate policy which should result in "a revised price structure we will all be able to live with for a long time to come."

Utility customers reduce energy use

SAN FRANCISCO — Energy conservation efforts by residential customers of Pacific Gas and Electric Company helped reduce overall use of natural gas and electricity during 1977, despite a 3.2 percent increase in the number of PG&E residential electric customers and a 2.5 percent increase in the number of household gas customers, the company reported today.

John S. Cooper, manager of PG&E's energy conservation and services department, said the reduction is even more significant because farmers used about 11 percent more electricity last year than in 1976 on irrigation pumping to offset the effects of the drought. Agriculture normally represents about eight percent of PG&E's total electrical energy sales.

Overall use of electricity, including commercial and industrial, dropped 2 percent per customer below 1976.

"This reduction reflects greater energy awareness by our customers," said

Cooper, "as well as increased use of energy-efficient appliances."

He noted that use of natural gas per household varies from year to year, depending on weather conditions, but use of gas still decreased in 1977 after recorded sales were adjusted to compensate for temperature variations.

Use of electricity per residential PG&E customer last year declined more than one percent below 1976 usage, to 6,408 kilowatt-hours. Use of gas in 1977 dropped to 942 therms, more than 10 percent per household below the 1976 level.

"As more people insulate their homes and take other conservation steps, more gas becomes available for business and industry to help our state's economy and provide for needed jobs," Cooper said.

A national survey earlier this year showed PG&E as one of only six of the country's 51 largest investor-owned electric utilities recording a decrease in use per residential customer. All six utilities are in western states.

Despite the decrease of household energy use, the utility official said new power plants and gas supplies will be needed to meet increased energy needs as the state's population and economy continue to grow.

Times Hometown news

Albany's Community Theatre began to sound like one last night, as the recently organized unit held its initial auditions for "Light Up the Sky."

The thespian will continue into this evening, in Albany High's Little Theatre, as Director Stephen Drewes searches for nine men and four women to make up the cast of the Moss Hart comedy.

"We'll know who got the parts by next Tuesday," Willi Kay Bokenkamp predicted. "That's when the call-backs are scheduled."

Willi, who serves as the theatre's promotion chairman, also is doing some casting. She's looking for a technical crew, and they're not easy to find. The techs will work under the direction of Production Chairman Debra Markert and Monay Jalaby, the stage manager.

And now the first performance is only eight weeks away.

Taking a different route to the footlights is Susan Kon, daughter of Albanyite Pamela C. Kon. Susan made her symphonic debut recently in a concert with the Whitman College Symphonic Band at Walla Walla.

Believing that "A widowed person is the one best able to help a widowed person," Beulah Belling is forming a group for the widowed.

"Sometimes we need help in coping with our feelings—we need aid in adjusting to our problems," Beulah mused. It occurred to me just the other day that it would be nice to have a group of widowed people who could get together occasionally to help each other.

"So I made some preliminary plans. We're having a meeting for them at the Senior Center, at 1 p.m. Monday."

"All widows and widowers interested in helping others in their similar situation are invited. And those wanting more information may call me at 531-5551."

It's anybody's guess as to what may happen at today's meeting of Soroptimist International of Albany.

Ellen Zapata is staging a "show-and-tell" program, and blandly urging fellow Sorops to "bring something from your family history— heirlooms, whatever—and tell us all about it."

Battlefield reports may be issued within hours.

Post seeks 'useable discards'

OAKLAND — The Volunteers of America, Oakland Post, is seeking donations of all kinds of useable discards in their ongoing effort to aid needy and low-income families and individuals in the community.

Lt. Colonel Raymond G. Ecklund, Executive Officer, states: "We continue to receive increased calls daily for help. The extremely wet and stormy weather we've been experiencing is creating problems for many needy and low-income people; problems they do not have sufficient money to solve. We want to help in every area that we can, and in order to do so, we urgently need further donations of all kinds of warm clothing, shoes and boots, for men, women and children of all ages and sizes. We especially need outerwear such as coats, weatherproof jackets and rainwear."

Volunteers of America will send their truck, free of charge. Donors are asked to call 536-0123 for appointment.

ON THE RISE — James W. Dieterich Jr., president of the Alameda County Taxpayers' Association, points an accusing finger at the rising curve graphically illustrating the upward trend of local property taxes, as he discusses the situation with San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson (on right).

Wilson, a possible candidate for the GOP gubernatorial nomination this year, was keynote speaker at a recent Alameda Taxpayers session which reviewed ways to keep government spending and property taxes in check.

Snowpack at 95 pct. of season's 'normal'

SACRAMENTO — The first snow surveys report for the 1977-78 season shows that 95 percent of the normal seasonal snowpack has accumulated with two months of the season remaining, the Department of Water Resources said today.

Well above normal amounts of water from snowmelt should be realized if average precipitation falls during the rest of February and March, the Department reported in its newly released Bulletin 120, Report No. 1, "Water Conditions in California." Forecasts of snowmelt runoff for April through July vary from 101 percent of normal on the Pit River to 142 percent of normal on the San Joaquin River.

Statewide precipitation for the first four months of the season is 135 percent of normal. Runoff during January was 220 percent of normal statewide.

Runoff is below normal only in the San Joaquin Valley and the Lahontan area (the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada), and snowmelt is expected to bring those areas to normal or above later in the year.

You know us. We know you.

You know the Mechanics Bank.

For over 70 years we've been here in the East Bay contributing to the growth of our people and communities.

In that time we've helped thousands of families just like yours build new homes. Or improve the ones they own.

We've helped hundreds of new East Bay businesses get off the ground. And we've loaned money to many more to expand or get through hard times.

We know that when you have a question or problem you want to discuss it with someone right here, right now. Not an anonymous voice in another city.

Most important, we know that you're not very different from us. Your car breaks down just like ours. And your roof springs leaks, too. And when these things happen, you want a bank you can count on.

Whatever banking needs you may have, we think you'll find it refreshing to deal with people whose ideas, interests, and attitudes are closer to home.

The Mechanics Bank. You know us, we know you.

New Hall of Fame for Cal's women athletes

BERKELEY — The University of California, Berkeley, has recently established the Hall of Fame for Cal Women Athletes to honor outstanding women athletes from the Berkeley campus and to encourage student athletes to aspire to the highest level of performance. Two of the most famous women in United States tennis, Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman and Helen Wills Wills, will become the first women inducted into the Hall of Fame.

The Department of Women's Intercollegiate Athletics is initiating this new campus honor for women with a Hall of Fame Week, February 21-25, 1978. This week will include varsity competition in basketball, softball, tennis and gymnastics; lectures; demonstrations by intercollegiate teams; and sports movies.

Highlighting the week's activities will be a celebrity tennis match featuring Bruce and Chrystie Jenner and Steve Bartkowski, former Cal quarterback who is currently playing for the Atlanta Falcons.

Following the match, the Jenners will be honored at a wine and cheese party at Haas Clubhouse in Strawberry Canyon. The Department has been very pleased with the support from the University and community including the donations from Guild Wineries, East Bay Beverage Company, and Colomby Salame Company for the Jenner reception. If you are interested in attending the wine and cheese party, call (415) 642-2098 for reservations.

Flooding hits game refuge

BENICIA — Heavy deposits of silt washing down from four large housing construction sites in the hills between Vallejo and Benicia are posing a threat to vital wildlife habitat of the Southamptton Marsh in Benicia State Park.

The threat to the Southamptton Marsh bears out fears expressed by California Department of Fish and Game biologists last year in comments to two environmental impact reports issued by the City of Vallejo for development of the Southamptton Bay watershed area.

On one letter to the city, the Department recommended that "The water runoff into Southamptton Bay from urban development should be controlled in such a manner that it doesn't reach the marsh."

In a second letter, dealing with a project which is not yet far enough along to seriously impact the watershed, the Department said: "We are deeply concerned that the massive alteration of the Southamptton Marsh watershed proposed as a part of the subject project, may cause irreparable damage to this vital marsh habitat."

After discussing its objections to the project the Department's letter said: "We note the subject report includes some tentative mitigation measures that could be accomplished to reduce the erosion potential. There is no assurance, however, that they would be employed nor are they sufficiently detailed to adequately evaluate. For these reasons, we believe the project as proposed is incompatible with marsh preservation, and propose the area be designated as open space."

The Southamptton watershed projects were approved by the two cities, however and construction started last fall. When this winter's heavy rains struck the construction-scarred hillsides, they eroded the partially-completed roads and the steep cuts between house sites, carrying tons of silt down into the marsh.

Now the DFG's district warden, Jack Edwards and the Regional Water Quality Control Board are working with the builders in a cooperative effort to stem the flow and prevent further damage. One builder has constructed a sandbag barrier across a four-acre flat area upstream from the marsh.

Corbett-Jones second recital

SAN FRANCISCO — Pianist William Corbett-Jones, who performed the San Francisco premiere of Mozart's complete works for solo piano last season, performs the second in a series of recitals on March 13 at 8 p.m. in Knuth Hall on the San Francisco State University campus.

Tickets for the concert are $3; half-price for students, senior citizens and alumni members. For information and reservations, call the Creative Arts Box Office at 585-7174, noon-4 p.m. weekdays.

Fields surged into second place in the 905 Major League at Albany Bowl by hammering out a 22½ to 2½ decision over Acme Printing Ink behind Les Riedlinger's solid 617 series.

Their lopsided victory left the Trackmen only 3½ points behind Full House, which retained its leadership with a 16 to nine win over Associated Coin Amusements.

Paco Vasquez set the pace for Full House with 238 game and 628 series. In rebuttal Steve Brewer of forced 659 on counts of 232-203-224 for ACA, but Vasquez was accorded the stronger support.

Larry MacCaughy's string of consecutive 200's snapped at 11 when he dropped to 193 in his third game, but his 629 series, backed by Bob Gherlone's 614 and Bob Mann's 599, was enough to propel Solano Club to a 14-11 triumph over Team Six.

Art Lane closed with 236 for 651 and Marv Siegfried added 601 as Diablo Bowling Supply nipped O & R Vending 14-11. Russ Epstein kept the Venders in contention with 630.

In the Majorettes League the Rick Altman Dance Band team, spiced by Sharlene Kennedy's 560 series, took over first place from Friends for Fun by beating the Friends 14-11. D & M Body Shop also won its winning streak by whipping B's Honey 14-11. Caren Park, who ran her league leading average to 196.

Fred Butler, also in Commercial, put most of his strikes into a 275 mixed game but had little to go with it, finishing at 140. Ed Wheeler gave the Mixed Fives another winning performance with game and 620 series. Joe Mitchell surprised Thursday Sleepers 203-213-226 for 642.

Although neither posted a 200 game, Rose McNeal and Karolina Larson bowled consistently well to lead their respective leagues. McNeal's paced Disco Travel, and Larson's 543 was best.

After Dinner Four, Staley Pannell got off a wobbly start but salvaged his series in the Green Lantern loop with closing 255 for 569.

Ray Stewart continued dominate scoring in the City Circuit by hitting 224-620. Ed Kelly pinned for league honors with 220-611.

Larry Kennedy topped Nisei Scratch with while Johnnie Thompson was giving NBA Mixed 650 and John Berg was leading 650 Scratch at 625.

Tax board offers tips on preparing state returns

ALBANY — With the holidays just a memory, Albany taxpayers are preparing for another annual ritual — the preparation of their State income tax return.

While few consider it a reason to be jolly, preparing a return can be considerably less onerous if taxpayers start now to gather their records, according to the Franchise Tax Board.

Whether a taxpayer itemizes or takes the standard deduction, certain documents are essential, for example, the Form 540 income tax return for residents or the Form 540NR for nonresidents or people who arrived here after January 1, 1977. Every wage earner must have his or her employer's report of wages paid, the W-2.

The department has mailed 8.3 million forms to Californians who filed tax returns last year. In addition, 660,000 postcards were sent to taxpayers who indicated last year that they did not require the regular State forms.

"These are mostly people who have their returns prepared by practitioners and who use their own forms almost identical to and acceptable to the department," according to Assistant Executive Officer James Gentz.

State tax officials suggest taxpayers sort out their records on the basis of information called for by the tax return:

Filing status and dependents. Be prepared to prove your right to the head of household status if you claim eligibility and to prove your right to claim certain dependents.

Income. Have records showing any interest or dividend income received, rent income or other miscellaneous payments. It's a good idea to have paycheck stubs handy in case of a discrepancy in your W-2 form.

Adjustments to income. You will need records for any disability expenses, moving expenses, certain employee expenses and alimony payments, which, for the first time, is allowable as an adjustment to income.

Itemized deductions. Get together your receipts for taxes, records of charitable contributions, medical and dental expenses, interest payments, and proof for any other allowable deduction.

Credits. This includes payment for the care of a dependent child, receipts for installation of an approved solar energy device, credit for taxes paid to another state, and the water equipment tax credit.

Capital gains or losses. Taxpayers with business income need records to document their business costs.

And finally, taxpayers who need help should check their telephone directory for the number of the Franchise Tax Board.

$800 million in refunds for California taxpayers

SACRAMENTO — Most of the millions of Californians now filing or working on their state income tax returns can expect to share in about $800 million of refunds, State Controller Kenneth Cory said today.

"It looks like a typical refund check this year will be around $65 although the actual sums will vary greatly both above and below that figure," Cory said. "The early-bird returns are being processed now by the Franchise Tax Board and we will be able to issue the first refunds within a few weeks. Of course, the earliest refunds go to those who file their returns earliest."

Cory said he expects to issue about six million income tax refunds this year, most of them to persons whose state income taxes were over-withheld from wages. Others will go to non-withholding taxpayers who overpaid on estimates. Last year, about $744 million in refunds were paid to over $1 million taxpayers.

"We also expect a growing number of refunds to residential renters who do not have income stability matching or exceeding the $37 Renters Credit available to them," Cory said.

"Anyone who rents a residence should file for this $37 refund even if there is no income tax liability. Last year there were about 500,000 refunds directly traceable to such filers."

Cory said the Franchise Tax Board expects about 9.2 million state income tax returns to be filed during 1978. About 8.7 million of the returns are expected to arrive between Jan. 1 and the April 15 due date. Filing forms and instructions already have been mailed to most taxpayers. Those not receiving such mailings may get forms and instructions from offices of the Franchise Tax Board throughout the state, at many banks, savings and loan companies, most post offices, some city and county offices and other state offices.

"Each taxpayer can speed up his own refund by carefully following the instructions, properly completing and signing the tax return, and mailing it as early as possible," Cory said.

S.F. Youth concerts' folk theme

SAN FRANCISCO — Folk themes will provide the connecting threads for the upcoming Youth Concerts program scheduled by the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra for mid-February through mid-March. Associate conductor David Ramadanoff will direct the performances which will feature the music of Moussorgsky, Dukas and Stravinsky.

"A Night on Bald Mountain," Moussorgsky's colorful work evoking images of goblins and ghosts, opens the program. This fantasy world in music continues with Dukas' "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," and concludes with Stravinsky's "Firebird" music. Each work has been selected by Ramadanoff for an interesting story line which translates easily into musical terms, as well as for its intrinsic musical values.

The series provides students in grades three to eight with an "opportunity to enjoy a real concert experience in the traditional setting of the War Memorial Opera House."

Performances are one hour each and have been scheduled for Feb. 17 and 24 and March 3 and 10 at 10:45 a.m. The San Francisco Symphony provides concert guides for use by teachers in pre-performance briefings on the music and instruments. This year it will implement the program in San Francisco by providing Youth Concerts Docents to aid in these educational activities. The docent program was initiated by Mrs. Robert Anderson, Youth Concerts chairperson, who hopes to expand this year's pilot program in San Francisco to other Bay Area communities in future seasons.

Tickets at $1.50 each are available now through elementary schools in the Bay Area or directly through the San Francisco Symphony Association Education Program Office, 107 War Memorial Veterans' Building, San Francisco 94102, (415) 861-6240.

HORSE TRAINER COL. F. L. CARR

He played polo with Gen. Patton

By JOHN ADAMS

ALBANY — "I knew Patton. Played polo against him. He rode a polo pony like he drove a tank — rode right over you."

Col. F. L. Carr, 84-years-young, still has a twinkle in his eye as he talks of men like Gen. George C. Patton whom he rode against in his youth.

If Patton was here he would probably tell you the Colonel was no cream-puff on horseback either. In fact, Col. Carr represented the U.S. in the equestrian events at both the 1924 and 1928 Olympics.

Today Col. Carr is the revered elder statesman among thoroughbred horse trainers on the West Coast. He has brought his racing string of 10 to Golden Gate Fields for the season.

The Colonel didn't always direct from the sidelines. A graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, Carr rode in the 1924 Olympics in France and then brought his first race horse named Mithrodiate from Baron Rothschild.

"They thought he was broken down," says the Colonel smiling. "But I got him well."

Returning to America with his French horse, the Colonel began his career as a trainer in 1926. He rode west in a box car with Mithrodiate. "No one was going to get to that horse. We ran twice at the track in Juarez, Mexico, across the border from El Paso. We won on a Sunday and then on Thanksgiving Thursday there. Juarez was a pretty gay town," he remembers.

It was at Juarez that Col. Carr met the man who was to become a lifelong friend, Bill Kyne, the chief of racing there. Kyne later pioneered the reopening of horse racing in California, and founded Bay Meadows Race Track. "He was a great fellow and a born gambler," says Col. Carr. "He probably gambled to get through the Pearly Gates."

After the fun at Juarez, Col. Carr went back to the U.S. Cavalry School at Ft. Riley, Kan. He instructed horsemanship and riding there while preparing for the 1928 Olympics in Amsterdam. Mithrodiate was still with him. "I kept that horse until he was 15, rode him at Belmont, Saratoga. Those were military races against officers from other nations," notes the colonel.

His 1928 Olympic ride was marred by a mistake by a teammate. A Major George was on the team largely because he was the son-in-law of the chairman of the Armed Services Committee. There were three Americans, Carr, Maj. Sloan Doak and George.

"We had to follow a flag course. At one point we had to make a sharp right turn and there were many ladies seated as spectators there. Major George saw them and stopped to wave. He then missed the flag and got us all disqualified for the team event," he says.

Returning to the U.S. Col. Carr instructed for the U.S. Cavalry through the 1930s. During WWII he says he never got across, (meaning Europe), since he was detained in the U.S. buying horses for a cavalry which never was used.

The Colonel retired in 1946, bringing his horses to Del Mar. Horsemen and racing fans might recall Eddie Schmidt and Cadiz, both of which he trained to racing greatness.

But perhaps his greatest achievement as a trainer was 1977 at Bay Meadows when Colonel purchased a horse for $5,000, Hill-sdales Lass, and proceeded to improve her to the point she won in allowance company. In eight races, Carr won four with the mare, finished second twice, and third once.

Today he is ready at Golden Gate with 10 horses, the best of which is probably Smallercraft Warning. "He's a little faint-hearted," admits the Colonel, "but five furlongs on the grass should do."

Col. Carr trains his animals to come from off the pace. "If YOU ran a half-mile and ran the first 100 yards in 10 seconds you might not even finish," he says with a twinkle. His horses always finish with a rush.

He still dines with military friends and classmates at the Presidio. Still very much a military man, he recalls Eisenhower and Bradley, both of whom were 1st Classmen at the Point when he was a Plebe. "Ike's home was in Kansas near the cavalry school. That's where I got to know him."

But neither Eisenhower nor Bradley were horsemen, says the Colonel who names Maj. Sloan Doak as the best all-around reinsman he ever knew.

His heart is still with Mithrodiate, the first horse he raced, but Carr admits that a horse the Irish government gave Gen. Pershing after WWI rates with the very best. "His name was Proctor," says the Colonel. "I rode him in the Olympics, and he was the strongest horse I ever rode."

Outstanding people he has known in racing? The Colonel names his friend Kyne, Tom Smith who trained Seabiscuit for Charles Howard, and has a soft spot in his heart for the jockey he uses today, Bill Mahorney. Of Mahorney, the Colonel says, "I know he is always trying. We communicate."

Any morning at Golden Gate you can see the Colonel in his tweed cap, standing by the rail with a classic gold stopwatch in his hand watching his thoroughbreds train. In the annals of thoroughbred racing there is a place for Sunny Fitzsimmons, Tom Smith, and Sande, and many more. But there is a place not so far from the for a man who may still be seen at Golden Gate Fields, Col. F. Carr.

Albany Senior Center News

By STEPHANIE FALLCREEK
and
MARTY ROSMAN

Today — Adult classes at 9:30, noon and 2 (World Affairs, Creative Retirement and Human Relations) — registration is free to seniors, and you're urged to attend them. The 4 o'clock dinner will feature fried chicken (we have a new meal caterer — come and try their fare, and be sure to call well ahead and reserve your place!). Entertainment by soprano Pearl Wolf. Note that the main courses for the rest of the month are different from those on your February activities calendar, because of the new caterer.

Thursday — Come to the bingo game at 10:30 — prizes for the winners (this may be your lucky day!). Community singing at 11:30, and cards and games in the afternoon. Macaroni and cheese "fiesta" for supper, then what promises to be an informative talk by a representative of "Legal Services for Seniors," an organization which provides a low-cost program of pre-paid legal service to older citizens with moderate or low income. This may be your chance to get the assistance you need with various legal problems, so plan to attend the talk, even if you don't come for dinner.

Friday — The art class with Gloria Trout continues at 10, and the bridge party starts at 12:30 — come and play! Meat loaf and gravy is on the menu tonight for those not taking the trip to San Pablo for an Italian dinner and old-time show (there are still a few places left — call now and reserve yours for this fun event — $8.25 includes everything — the bus leaves at 6:45).

Saturday — The "Cultures & Countries" class continues at 9:30, and bingo gets under way at 11:45. Stitchery fans meet during the morning (starting at 9). Bag lunches are in order, as the dancing is active and fun from 2 to 5. Don't forget the "Senior Prom," the weekly Saturday night dance at the Center from 8 to 11 — $1.50 at the door includes refreshments — everyone says these are really enjoyable events!

Sunday — The Center is open at noon for relaxing activities, such as cards and visiting, with coffee on tap. A nice quiet place to spend a Sunday afternoon. You can practice your dance technique next door from 2 to 4.

Monday — The Creative Writing class starts up again, after the two-week holiday layoff — Marcy meets with participants at 9. Bag lunch at noon, and watercolor class from noon to 2. Beulah Belling will meet with a widow's group from 1 to 3:30 — take advantage of this chance to share some of your feelings about widowhood. Braised beef with mushrooms will be served at 4.

Tuesday — Needlecraft at 10. A special watercolor class will be starting on Tuesday mornings soon, probably early in March — watch this column for further information. The exercise class starts at 2 today — it's good for you and fun, too — give it a try! Roast ham (yum! yum!) for dinner, and A program of modern dance afterwards.

A special note of thanks to Mother's Cake & Cookie Co. and Larson's Bakery (near the Oaks Theatre) for the baked goods they have donated as refreshments for the dances on Saturday nights — their generosity is appreciated.

Upcoming trips: The Opry House in San Pablo (see Friday this week); North Shore Cal-Neva Mar. 5 and 6 (a few places left at this writing); Cliff House and KQED Mar. 13 (sold out); Oakland Zoo and Museum tours with no-host lunch on April 11.

Drop in to the Center whenever you get a chance, have some coffee and a chat, see old and new friends. It's YOUR Center — take advantage of it!

'Carousel' theme of Garden Show

OAKLAND - "California Carousel" is the theme for the 46th annual California Spring Garden Show - and it seems certain to set all the senses a-whirling.

Scheduled for April 30 through May 7, in Oakland's Lakeside Park Garden Center, the gigantic prize-winning display will feature a new garden created for the inspiration and pleasure of blind as well as sighted visitors.

In addition to the expected delights of viewing a garden, in this case the senses of touch, taste, hearing, and smell will all be stimulated by various aspects of the picturesque display just inside the main garden entrance.

Raised planting beds alongside a curving path will make it easy for blind visitors to find their way around the splashing cascade in the center, and to smell and in some cases feel and taste the leaves.

All informational plaques, placed on top of the waist-high rock wall, will be in Braille as well as in conventional type.

A permanent addition to the Garden Center, the new set is a donation from the Garden Show and the Lakeside Club, an organization of Parks and Recreation employees.

Also of special interest will be the exemplification of the theme through inclusion of ornate figures from Bay Area carousels in some of the major horticultural displays.

As always in the Garden Show, the six-acre Garden Center will be a blaze of color and a maze of imaginative design, both in the outdoor garden areas and inside the magnificent building.

Design coordinator Gordon Courtright is working for the seventh year with many of Northern California's premier nurserymen, landscape designers, and garden club members to produce this latest in the show's long succession of nationally honored exhibits. The entire show and some of its individual displays have often been awarded the Bulky Medal of the Garden Club of America, the top horticultural prize in the nation.

Hours for the show are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on all days except the last (Sunday, May 7), when the doors will close at 4 p.m. in order to accommodate the re-opening at 4:30 for the traditional excitement of the annual Plant Sale.

Many of the plant materials featured in the exhibits during the show will be sold at bargain prices in the sale, which will continue till all the transactions are completed.

Ticket prices for the show are $2 for adults through 64 years of age, $1.50 for senior citizens, and $1 for children from 12

Mailbag

Dear Sir:

In this month's issue of the (Senior) Block Coordinator News Letter appears the following item: "During the last few months most of our volunteers have come from the University Village in Albany. The Village is proving to be a great asset in this program, as many of our active visitors and volunteer drivers are from there."

As the first block coordinator in Albany and co-founder of the (Senior) Block Coordinator Program (then known as Block-Aid) I was both thrilled and gratified by the news item.

I was thrilled because, at long last, one of the many contributions the Village students make to the community is mentioned in print for all to see. For years and years several councilmen and citizens have maligned the Villagers as transients, free-loaders and second class citizens. Did you know that many former Village residents are now both Albany homeowners and community leaders? Isn't it time that we come to our senses and accept the students and their families into the community? Let us show love and understanding and put an end to our intolerance of the students for once and for all.

Sincerely,
Dario Meniketti

Scientists gauge 'charm' in matter

BERKELEY — A collaboration of scientists led by physicists from Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory (LBL) and the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center (SLAC) has measured precisely two properties of the D-meson — the subatomic particle which displays charm. Charm is a fundamental property of matter, like electric charge or spin, which was predicted by theoretical physicists in 1964. The first particle to display charm overtly, the D-meson, was discovered in 1976.

"By making these measurements of the D-meson we are increasing our knowledge of charmed particles, and finding real facts that will help theorists improve their models of the basic constituents of matter," says LBL physicist Lina Galtieri, who, along with

SLAC physicist Martin Perl, led the collaboration that made the measurements.

The measurements were made at SPEAR, the electron-positron colliding beam facility at the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center. In SPEAR, counter-rotating beams of electrons and their antiparticles, positrons, moving at speeds close to the speed of light, collide head on. Subatomic particles that are not found in ordinary matter are created in these collisions.

Last year another team of LBL and SLAC scientists, also working in SPEAR, discovered the D-meson, the first particle to exhibit charm clearly and measured its mass at that time. But in the recent experiment, the D-meson mass was measured more accurately.
